Introduction:

AWARD, a grassroots non-profit social service organization established in 2005 under the Societies Registration Act 35 of 2001, was created in response to widespread issues such as illiteracy, ignorance, poor health, agricultural crises, cultural challenges, and malnutrition in underdeveloped regions of Guntur, Prakasam, East Godavari, West Godavari, and Nellore Districts. With no profit motives, AWARD is dedicated to tackling these challenges by equipping individuals with the skills and knowledge needed to become professionals capable of providing high-quality services. The organization aims for sustainable development through partnerships with community-based organizations and Farmer Producer Organizations (FPOs).

Vision & Objectives:

AWARD is founded on the belief that India's strength depends on its villages and thus a developed nation should come through the protection, progress and enhancement of its farmland and rural communities. The socio-economic transformation of India may be achieved through the agricultural sector, rather than at its expense.

AWARD works to promote and nurture self-reliant Community-Based Organizations and promote sustainable livelihoods of small and marginal farmers, landless agricultural labour, women, and children by upholding local resources, natural resources, sustainable agriculture, and ecological balance in rural Andhra Pradesh. The overall goal of the organization is to empower the rural poor. Our focus is on the development of small and marginal farming communities and women's development in Andhra Pradesh, South India.

ZBNF Implementation Project:

ZBNF project is an ongoing project sanctioned by NABARD during the 2019-20 year to AWARD NGO. The project period was 3 years for implementation. 3 years completed by the end of March 2023. The progress of the project is as follows by the end of March 2023.

Objectives of the project:

- ❖ Transform 100 farmers practicing chemical farming into ZBNF practitioners.
- ❖ Reduce cultivation costs and achieve sustainable, incremental income growth for farmers.
- ❖ Convert 100 acres to ZBNF, aiming for a 20% increase in productivity on this land.
- ❖ Offer technical support and guidance to 635 members via a common service center.
- ❖ Achieve a 26% reduction in input costs previously spent on chemical inputs.
- ❖ Generate an additional 10% income by growing multiple crops per season.
- ❖ Introduce intercropping systems, significantly enhancing agro-ecology and agro-biodiversity, with farmers cultivating their saplings in mini shade nets.
- ❖ ZBNF reduces investment needs and improves post-harvest techniques, enhancing quality and pricing, adding value to increase profits, minimizing waste, and managing risks. It also contributes to better soil health and fertility.

The following activities have been carried out in the project.

- ❖ We have gathered comprehensive data on 100 farmers through a baseline survey, which includes family details, tenant farming status, primary crops, additional income sources, soil structure, current agricultural practices, and extra income details.
- ❖ These 100 selected farmers received orientation through various training sessions, exposure visits, and farmer field schools focusing on Zero Budget Natural Farming (ZBNF) practices, involving agriculture scientists and ZBNF experts.

- ❖ As a result of the ZBNF farming impact, an additional 65 farmers have joined the project and begun practising ZBNF.
- ❖ We established a common service centre in Narsaraopet, which covers a quarter of the project area, to ensure easy accessibility for target farmers. Project scientists and technical assistants provide services to farmers, including answering phone calls, demonstrating plots, clarifying doubts, and conducting field visits as needed.
- ❖ A total of 354 farmers have benefitted from the common service centre, receiving suggestions, and 123 farmers have visited the demonstration plot. Farmers from outside the project area and from our FPO villages are also utilizing the centre's services.
- ❖ A toll-free number was provided to farmers, through which 354 calls were received from 116 farmers, extending our services further.
- ❖ We developed a website for the ZBNF project, updating data regularly on the portal.
- ❖ A production center was set up at Kotappakonda for making Kashyams and Dravanams.
- ❖ We partnered with Attalur FPO and Usha Natural Products unit for supplying other inputs like Ghana Jeevamrutam, Agnastram, and Dasaparni Kashyam, providing all necessary inputs as needed.
- ❖ We prepared and distributed booklets, pocketbooks, and pamphlets on ZBNF practices, including the preparation of cow-based inputs and kashayas.
- ❖ Information on ZBNF was widely publicized through wall writings in all villages.
- ❖ 18 varieties of pulses and millets were distributed to 110 farmers for pre-monsoon dry cultivation.

1. Women development programme (Individual donors):

AWARD conducted a Skill Training program on Tailoring for 120 participants in Barampeta, Murikipudi, and Martur villages of Palnadu and Bapatla districts, with the assistance of AWARD executive body members and local donors. The primary goal of the training was to enhance participants' skills and capacities in tailoring, including the creation of various garments and the establishment of units. Trainers were educated on the benefits of training, such as increased employee productivity, reduced turnover, improved job satisfaction, aid in the recruiting process, and decreased need for employee supervision.

Natural Farming :

AWARD, in partnership with NGOs, introduced the Natural Farming initiative for sustainable agriculture. The main objective is to advocate for agricultural practices that rely on natural crop growth, eliminating the use of chemical fertilizers and pesticides while promoting effective agronomic techniques. During the initiative, 12 training sessions and 5 Kalajatha events were organized, educating 950 farmers about the principles of Natural Farming. Additionally, 75 farmers received technical guidance on cultivation practices, along with awareness sessions on horticulture, vegetable farming, millet, and pulses. Details are given below.

2. Career Development Programmes:

The AWARD organization organized five life skills education sessions for 10th-grade students. These sessions covered essential life skills like understanding child rights, setting goals, career guidance, self-awareness, empathy, critical and creative thinking, decision-making, problem-solving, effective communication, personality development, and building interpersonal relationships. As a result, 190 students participated and showed positive behaviour and attitude changes. These programs aimed to enhance students' self-sufficiency and skills, fostering the adoption of positive behaviours and attitudes.

2. IMPACT-MONITORING AND EVALUATION – MEASURES FOR QUALITATIVE IMPROVEMENT

The organization's programs and initiatives are meeting performance expectations, with management consistently employing monitoring and evaluation processes to improve service quality for target groups. Project efforts are concentrated in Guntur, Prakasam, and Nellore districts, with plans to expand into eight districts, including Chittoor, Nellore, and others. Future goals involve extending activities to neighbouring districts in Andhra Pradesh to support marginalized groups like impoverished women, youth, and disadvantaged individuals, regardless of their caste or community. We expect to secure the necessary funding from various sources, including NABARD, NRIs, and government organizations/banks, to ensure systematic and high-quality implementation of activities. The Executive Body is wholly committed to serving the intended groups with dedication and sincerity.

PERSPECTIVE PLANS FOR 2023-24

Plans for the year 2023-24 include the development of new policies, innovative programs, and activities to benefit target groups. These initiatives are aimed at improving various aspects of the target groups' welfare. This report does not include additional details about these plans and their implementation.

CONCLUSION:

AWARD has been dedicated to assisting the specific communities within its operational area by executing tailored programs and initiatives in response to their needs. As the organization continues to expand, the Executive Body is ready to undertake appropriate measures to carry out a range of socio-economic development endeavours aimed at enhancing the well-being of the identified target groups, aligning with the outlined objectives.
